Given Biggest Vote of Any Mayor for Years—Republicans Have Seven Out of Nine Councilmen

Democrats Get Control of Board of Public Works— Hasty and Barrett Elected By Small Majorities— Yarwood Re-elected Tax Assessor.

The citizens of Portsmouth in no the largest given any mayor of either uncertain manner on Tuesday en-party. Mayor Badger's majority endorsed Daniel W. Badger as Mayor, over Freeman R. Garrett, the republicans made a net gain of one councilman and they will have seven out of the nine councilmen. The gain was made in ward one, where Clement M. Waterhouse was elected over George P. Smallton. The democrats elected Councilman Leary in ward three for the third time and Councilman Parsons was re-elected at large.

The republicans lost the Board of Public Works, Fred E. Hasty defeating John Newick, republican, for re-election by 17 majority, and James W. Barrett defeated Albert Hislop, republican, by 43 majority. The vote in this was very close and the result is that the democrats now have full control of this important branch of the government, as Mr. Conlon, the third member now in office, is a democrat.

The republicans won the assessor of taxes, John G. Yarwood, the republican candidate being re-elected by a majority of 387, over Frank M. Dennett, democrat.

There was no contest over the Board of Instruction and there was but a slight difference in the vote of the four candidates who were on both tickets.

In the contest for ward councilmen, there was a lively fight in ward one and the republicans elected their candidate for the first time in two years. In ward two there was a lively interest in the vote for councilman, and George Clark, republican

The Sulzer bill states that in the judgment of Congress the treaty should be terminated at the earliest possible moment. It directs the President to give the usual notice to Russia that the treaty will cease to be in force upon expiration of a year after such notification.

The vote for mayor was 11,732 for O'Connell, 9759 for Brooks, 200 for George F. Weiss, Socialist.

ASKS FOR DISSOLUTION

Boston, Dec. 12.—A suit asking for the dissolution of the United Shoe Machinery company, a corporation of world wide scope, was instituted this afternoon by the federal government, which filed a bill in equity in the United States circuit court.

The bill is brought against the United Shoe Machinery company of New Jersey, eighteen subsidiary corporations and twenty three individuals to prevent and restrain the defendants from "maintaining and engaging in unlawful combinations, contracts and conspiracies in restraint of interstate and foreign trade and commerce in violation of the Sherman act in the manufacture, sale and devices used in the manufacture of boots and shoes."

The court is asked to order the dissolution of the defendant corporations into such parts that no one of them will constitute a monopoly or can become a monopoly of the shoe machinery business.

The bill is brought by United States Attorney French, acting under the direction of Attorney General Wickham and bears the signatures of Asa P. French, United States attorney; George W. Wickham, attorney general; J. A. Fowler, assistant to the attorney general and William S. Gregg, special assistant to the attorney general.

President Winslow and other officials of the United Shoe Machinery company were indicted by the federal grand jury last summer for violating the Sherman law. The cases have not yet come to trial.

Beef Barons Who Are on Trial For Alleged Violation of Sherman Law

J. Ogden Armour, Louis F. Swift and Edward Morris, meat packers, together with several of their business partners and managers, are on trial at Chicago on charges of violating the criminal provisions of the Sherman anti-trust act. The case had been in the court for several years before it reached the actual trial stage.

Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth observed the inscription "The Tuck Home for Nurses," and the year of the building in 1911. In the rear of the building is a two-story balcony. In the interior the entrance opens into a spacious hallway from a vestible. There is also a living or reception room which occupies the entire end and is ornate, as all will be needed for the attractive fireplace and mantles and.

This is not good news. For while from this room three double glass doors have been opened upon the east balcony of reach because of high prices, the end two rear windows and smaller potato has been repelled upon many rooms in the rear balcony. Its use, also, is likely to increase rapidly wherever it can be found. And that is almost everywhere. The history of the food reads not go as high this year as is anticipated.

Potatoes.

Reports thus far received seem to hold a hard outlook this winter for users of potatoes. Imported potatoes mostly from Ireland, are beginning to be received at our ports.

But the prices are high. Maine potatoes are being double the price of last year and the prediction is made that the price will go higher still before the winter is over. The reason for this is not found in any manipulation of the market, but in the conditions of the weather last summer. Almost every potato raising country in the world reports an abnormal shortage in the crop. The hot wave of last July dried up the ground in this country. But it also extended to Europe and had disastrous effects there.

Germany, which produces one-third of the potato crop of the world, suffered severely. And so general became this condition abroad that the year Augustina Flax, where they will pass in expressed that there will be price the winter.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1911

Have you made your good resolutions for 1912? If not, why not?

This can be classed as the poor man's weather, so far as coal bills are concerned.

This weather has got the oldest inhabitant very much puzzled as to the date of a similar December.

Nobody can deny that the weather is a bit unseasonable for the 13th of December and for that very reason we should not allow ourselves to become careless in the matter of safeguarding our health. Better be a little uncomfortable than to indiscriminately discard the overcoat and go out dressed as if it were summer.

Portsmouth may reap the greatest benefit from the Kittery navy yard but it is noticeable that it is the Maine Congressional delegation that is moving into action against the plan recently advanced by Secretary Meyer.—Portland Express.

Why should not the Maine delegation interest themselves in behalf of the Portsmouth navy yard? Many residents of Kittery, Eliot, York and other places in Maine are employed on the yard. Portsmouth is not the only place that derives a benefit from Uncle Sam's navy yard.

THE EARLY SHOPPING HABIT

It may not be doubted that the public has very well learned the lesson that it pays to shop early during the Christmas buying season. Whereas a few years ago it was customary to find the stores only half filled up to fortnight before Christmas, now the heavy tide of buying sets in at least a month in advance. The warning to "do it now" is appreciated by consideration for the shoppers themselves, as well as for the merchants and their employees. In the Portsmouth stores the effect of the first suggestion to "shop early" was felt in an increase in the attendance. The result cannot fail to be more satisfactory on all sides. Customers who have made their Christmas purchases at this time feel more content that though they had postponed their buying until the last moment. They have had the pick of the stock, they have had the best service, they have not been compelled to rush and decide hurriedly, and they have the gratifying feeling that they have done some thing to relieve the heavy burden of the store attendants.

The truly careful shopper, however, will do more than advance the date of the final purchases. The best results come from a study of store conditions and an effort to visit the shops at the hours of least congestion. There are certain times of the day when the aisles are necessarily crowded, immediately following the closing of the various manufacturing industries. Thousands of people in this city are able to shop earlier than that time, and they serve themselves best by making their trips down town at a time when the pressure is the least. Shopping should be conducted by the purchaser with the same care and thoughtfulness that the business man himself displays in his organization and his management. So that those who expect to do any considerable amount of buying for Christmas should take into account more than their own convenience and schedule of hours and adjust to the conditions of the market.

BIRD'S EYE VIEWS

Congressional students of the inauguration date question should not be misled by the early December business into the belief that early March is just as clement and trustworthy.

The cabinet officers will probably make unanimous the recommendation that the principles of good business administration demand the establishment of a retirement system.

The failure of hard winter predictions to find fulfillment is gratifying but it seems a shame to see such superior base ball weather going to waste.

The perils of aviation have spoiled enthusiasm for going over Niagara Falls in a barrel by making it seem a comparatively tame sport.

Japan's only method of discussing the possibility of war with the United States is in the line of an earnest effort to show that it does not exist.

Possibly some economist may succeed in devising an elastic tariff that will adjust itself to the constantly shifting conditions of commerce.

Philadelphia may become almost as famous as Maine for its efforts to regulate the liquor traffic.

A large number of rather serious after-dinner speeches are still in progress as results of the Gary banquets.

The late Christmas shopper would be entitled to a hero medal if the self-sacrifice she deliberately undergoes represented any possibility of public benefit.

The magazine is an institution which leaves a great many able public men independent of Congress for the important privilege known as "leave to print."

The McNamaras are to be congratulated on their sentences, if they have any friends left who are willing to undertake the enterprise.

If dinners continue to find pearls in oysters, an oyster is liable to be come as expensive as a beefsteak.

Remember the postman and do not try to pile all the Christmas deliveries on him in the last two or three days.

Mr. Woodrow Wilson's literary bureau should be the means of making the preparation of a domestic campaign text book easy for a man with paste pot and scissors.

American journalists do not have to fight duels and Los Angeles hopes that they will never again be expected to dodge dynamite.

Washington may not get the national conventions, but it is the meeting place of the men who say where they shall be held.

In the Portsmouth stores the effect of the first suggestion to "shop early" was felt in an increase in the attendance. The result cannot fail to be more satisfactory on all sides. Customers who have made their Christmas purchases at this time feel more content that though they had postponed their buying until the last moment. A TOTAL LOSS

The old schooner Ella May from Boston for Rockport, Me., wrecked on York ledges on Monday night, as told exclusively in The Herald of Tuesday evening will be a total loss. On the arrival of Captain Hall and the crew of the Wood Island life saving station at the wreck, they cut the shrouds of the schooner and let her right herself. A search was made for seaman Thomas Burke of Roxbury, Mass., who was in the cabin when the schooner toppled over, and was caught by the inrush of water. No trace of the missing man could be found and it is thought that he was washed out of the forward companionway of the cabin into the sea.

When the schooner toppled over Captain Berry and Mate Campbell took to the rigging where they were to the rigging until taken off by a York Harbor fisherman named Card, as the schooner's boat had gone adrift.

When the crew of the Wood Island life saving crew returned to the station on Tuesday afternoon the schooner was fast breaking up and Captain Hall informed a Herald representative that she would soon be a total loss.

The crew of the life saving station brought Captain Berry and Mate Campbell to the station and later they took the train for their respective homes.

RAILROAD NOTES

The December term of the United States circuit and district courts for the district of New Hampshire, Justice Edgar Aldrich presiding, opened in the rooms in the government building on Tuesday.

The term promises to be long by reason of important matters to be presented.

There are three cases for trial on the civil list and one on the criminal docket, United States v. William W. Wheatley of Winchester, Mass., formerly of Manchester, an indictment for using the United States mails in a scheme to defraud.

There are many matters to be presented to the grand jury, including the break in the Warren office, for which three eggs, captured recently at Rouse's Point, N. Y., are held at the Merrimack county jail and the break in the Plaistow postoffice for which two eggs, captured in Dover by Postoffice Inspector Robinson and Stone, are held in the Rockingham county jail in this city.

In addition Inspector Robinson has a egg in the Hillsboro county jail whom he suspects of having robbed the Hampstead postoffice, and there will be presented Harry Hackett and Earl Booth who were arrested in Lampeter on Monday by the state authorities on a charge of breaking and entering the post office at Goshen on Saturday night.

Postmaster Hanson discovered the men at work in his store and a gun duel followed during the progress of which the postmaster was seriously wounded, and Hackett was shot in the hand.

The men were found in a shack in Unity which was stocked with guns, ammunition, etc. They secured from the office, stamps of the value of $25 and cash of a like amount.

The first case to go to trial will be the indictment against William W. Wheatley for using the mails in a scheme to defraud, which was taken up this morning.

This will be followed by the action Cady Brick Co., v. Frank A. Tillot, a deputy sheriff of Rockingham county, to recover on an alleged excessive attachment.

The action Landry v. City of Manchester will be taken up on Monday afternoon of next week, at 3.

Benjamin T. Bartlett of Derry and Alonso L. Chamberlain of Lebanon were admitted to practice in the courts of the United States.

The members of the grand jury from this city are Oliver J. Goldsmith, John H. Sugden and the attorney Oliver L. Fribbee and Richard L. Walden.

ARTIST SUICIDE HAD

FRIENDS IN YORK HARBOR

Richmond, Va., Dec. 12—Dead from self-suffocation, the body of Chas. M. Nelson, 50 years old artist and Socialist of Boston, was found in a room over the Richmond Burial Company's establishment here this morning.

Nelson came here two months ago from the North in quest of health and quickly formed the acquaintance of manager Haight of the burial company, who is also a Socialist. Haight provided him with sleeping quarters and secured him employment.

A year or two ago Nelson contracted blood poisoning, he had said as a result of injuries to his right hand. After that he gave up work as an artist. He sustained gave up work as an artist. He sustained the injuries he said, while stopping a runaway in Boston.

Recently Nelson heard to remark that he had a wealth married sister in New York city, but was too proud to call on her for financial assistance. In a pocket was found a letter in Swedish from Miss Emma Nelson of Orchard Cottage, York Harbor, Me. Another envelope contained a circular communication from the Socialist headquarters at 14 Park square, Boston. Still another epistle was from Miss Fredia Swenson of Brooklyn.

Despondency over the death of his wife and daughter is believed to have been partly responsible for his act. It is not known here when they died. Nelson had been drinking recently, it is said.

SALE OF PORTSMOUTH & EXETER ROAD ALLOWED

Judge Aldrich Decides in Favor of Trust Company, But Gives Public Chance to Buy.

Judge Aldrich of the United States circuit and district courts for the district of New Hampshire, has filed a decree in the action of the New York Trust company vs. the Portsmouth & Exeter Street Railway company, leaving the road to be dismantled. The masters found the junk price of the road to be $63,000.

The trust company petitioned for leave to sell the road either as a going concern, or to dismantle it and plan so arranged as to first enable sell the material entering into its public, or members of the public, construction for junk.

In his opinion, Judge Aldrich at a sum considerably less than an grants the petition with the condition price based upon the value options named above.

conference with Postmaster General Hitchcock and others, who were said to be opposed to the Indiana committee. When Mr. Hitchcock failed to put in an appearance at the committee this morning, the suggestion was laughingly made that he had been "steam rolled."

Denver's seven votes were cast by the committee men from Colorado, West Virginia, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, Hawaii and the Philippines. St. Louis got the Texas vote. The representatives of North Dakota, Arizona and Nevada were absent, and Chicago got all the rest.

As indicating a phase of the attitude of the committee, its decision to call for the selection of delegates from the District of Columbia at a primary election was of unusual interest.

All was done according to the pre-arranged schedule. There was a brief threat of an upset when Senator Borah of Idaho protested against the perfunctory approval of "newspaper list," when Mr. Lowden of Illinois called for the naming of the committee, on arrangements with Col. New as chairman. Mr. Borah said he thought the members of the committee should be elected by the National committee and not chosen on the outside.

Senator Crane of Massachusetts moved that the chairman appoint the committee. Mr. Lowden suggested that this would overcome Senator Borah's objection.

"It will not overcome my objection," retorted the Idaho Senator, "but it is the course the committee probably will follow."

The chair was given authority to name the committee and Chairman Hill said he would announce it later. "Name it now," came the command from several committee men.

Chairman Hill called for the committee list from Mr. Lowden, and officially sanctioned the slate as agreed to last night.

The Taft forces, directed by Charles D. Hilles, secretary of the President and manager of the Taft forces, was about the committee room during the session and was gratified to see the Taft program go through without change.

When he tried to get such laws passed he met opposition as strong as money and influence could raise. When a law was secured he found it a long struggle to get it enforced. He was sued by the maker of the crooked scales for infringement of patents and for being a various courts. Injunctions to restrain him from circulating facsimile reproductions of advertising material put out by the maker of the tricky scale were obtained in the lower courts, only to be dissolved by the higher courts. What has been the result? In six States the tricky scales are banned and their manufacture has ceased. There remains the task of getting laws passed in the other States, but that will be accomplished with increasing ease.

Speaker.

The Taft people also had insisted that in addition to Col. New they should name a majority of the committee. A sharp fight developed, with Postmaster General Hitchcock and other friends of Vice Chairman Hill of the committee insisting that Mr. Hill should be given the authority to constitute the committee as he saw fit. Mr. Hilles would hear of no compromise.

A Scale Maker's Fight

Nearly ten years ago a certain man bought the patents of computing scale, formed a company, and prepared to make and sell. The computing scale—which announces not merely weight but also the price of the commodity—is an excellent modern business device. It protects the customer and the doctor—when honestly made and used. When this man began to investigate the market, he found that the ideal conditions for competition—a fair field and no favor did not exist. The company already in the business was selling computing scales on the argument that they would help the dealer to stand from the consumer three per cent or more of the commodity purchased. They were recommended by sales agents as cheating devices, and were so advertised in circulars to dealers. The man new to the business could choose between making and selling crooked scales, and thus meeting the first manufacturer on his own ground or making honest scales and educating

Fire Extinguishers.

About 1840 a Mr. Thomas Phillips of London invented an apparatus for putting out fire, but it was not much of a success. When put in action the steam and carbonic acid which were to extinguish the flames were not generated in sufficient quantity to do the work. A Frenchman named Cavelier patented a fairly successful extinguisher in 1802, since which date they have been used more or less all over the world to put out incipient fires, though, of course, they are valueless after the fire has acquired much headway.—New York American.

The Gladiators.

Usually gladiators were matched in pairs. They fought in different ways—blinded, in chariots, on horseback, in full armor and with the tosso. Nets were used by some, who, after throwing one over the head of an antagonist, dispatched him with a three pointed lance or trident.

SELECT CULLINGS

A Russian Wife's Lesson.

In Russia the law obliges the wife to follow her husband wherever it pleases him to establish his residence. Formerly he had the right, if he disobeyed, to slit her nose. This barbarous custom has been abrogated. The husband now has other means to compel obedience to his will. The Princess Xenia Galtzina has just had proof of this. The prince inspired her with more than sympathy. She told him so and announced that she was going to quit him. "We shall see," said the prince, with a smile.

He went from Kharkov, where he lived, to Kourgan, which is in the heart of Siberia, and by letter invited his wife to join him. She refused. He then caused her to be arrested by the police and brought to him on foot with a convoy of convicts, so Le Cri de Paris relates. She had to submit to many indignities, slept on the hard ground, was exposed to the most inclement weather and almost perished with hunger. When she at last arrived she was received by the prince with exquisite politeness and asked if the lesson was sufficient.

The Changing Map of the World.

We are inclined to think that the world is changing very slowly. But the maps tell a different story. The 1912 world maps will look materially different from those of 1911, and when one comes to compare the one of 1910 with that which will mark the close of 1915 it will probably be found that the changes are marvelous. This year we see the Moslem, as a ruler, expelled from north Africa as the Italian map that covers Tripoli, France and Spain now control Morocco. Egypt has finally, in all practical purposes, become as thoroughly British "red" as Algiers has been French "blue." Now the indications are that the German "yellow" will extend into central equatorial Africa from Kamerun to the Belgian Congo. The political map of Africa has completely changed in the last two years. The south is now one great nation, United South Africa, and in all the continent there is left only one great African state—Myanmar.—Indianapolis News.

A Stock Market Romance.

Wall street speculators boast of their imagination. The average successful speculator has just enough imagination to get himself a living. The few speculators who grow rich have so very little more than one wonders what would happen if there ever came to Wall street a speculator whose imagination was equal to the verities. Then years ago steel common was distributed to a crazy trading public around 50, and the big sellers sat up nights signing their certificates for delivery every one thinking it a miracle that the stuff could be sold at so absurd a price. Three years later the stock sold at $85. Five and a half years after that it sold at 94%, and recently, after a decline of 30 points in a very short time on the government's dissolution suit, the stock touched the promoters' distribution price, and Wall street held its breath to see if the investment holders were not going to stampede. And at that promoters' price the stock yields the buyer 10 per cent on his money.—New York Post.

An Aviation Institute.

At Koutchino, near Moscow, there is established the most complete laboratory now in existence for the prosecution of researches pertaining to aviation. This institution has become the center of much interest within the last year or two. Here investigations are made of all questions relating to aeronautics, and some remarkable results have been obtained, especially in regard to what is called the "aerostation" of bodies of certain shapes when placed in currents of air. It has already been made evident that there are many phenomena of an unexpected character which, when they have been thoroughly investigated, may materially aid inventors and engineers in the construction of improved flying machines.—Harper's.

Laundry Prices in Russia.

If John H. Snodgrass, consul general at Moscow, ever kicked about his laundry work while living in the United States, he begs the pardon of every steam cleaning establishment, every laundry and every colored washwoman in this country. What they are doing to his collars and shirts over there in the land of the czar is horrible to relate. Besides that, the way they are soaking him in the matter of price is enough to make any American citizen utter loud words of distress. For instance, they charge a nickel to do up a collar, and "the work is unsatisfactory, and the finishing is crudely done," he asserts.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Bet and Lost.

A Kansas merchant who had just a $1000 bet because his vegetable display box was not six inches higher than the sidewalk ventured the suggestion that a man can't go from morning till night without breaking some Kansas law, no matter how careful he is. A hotel man thought he could, and a wager was made, and the next day was set for the test.

"I'll win that bet, all right," said the hotel man. "I'll stay in bed all day tomorrow."

And he did until just before dark when an inspector came along and arrested him for not having a nine foot

DRIVES MINERS
CRAZY

Briceville, Tenn., Dec. 12—Spurred on by last night's discovery of survivors of Saturday's dust blast in the Cross Mountain coal mine, fresh rescue squad went in to the cross entries this morning, hacking and digging with redoubled energy.

Their only reward, however, was the discovery of a corpse-strewn chamber, far back in the mine.

Six bodies were recovered. Two of the six were identified. They were Joseph McQueen and Tate Vallade. Stricken mad, probably from fear inspired by their plight, two miners who had been with the party rescued last night are "now dashing wildly in and out of channels in the far recesses of the mine."

All night long men out of the rescue squad have been chasing the maniacs, but just as soon as would-be rescuers get close on their trail the madmen would dash away, screaming wildly.

Additional squads of men have been sent into the mine. They will attempt to run down the two madmen before they penetrate a chamber filled with deadly gas fumes. A Federal official took charge of the chase this forenoon, but up to 1 p. m. the crazed survivors of the dust blast eluded pursuit.

Once a squad traced the men to a chamber, but before they could be penned in, they crept into a dark corner in the main shaft, and when the party passed them, they scurried, screaming, back into the inner workings.

Additional signs of life were discovered in the Cross Mountain mine at 11 a. m. On the walls of the mine shaft were found inscribed these words: "We have gone to 23."

The rescue party penetrated into cross entry No. 23. No miner was found there, but additional directions for their rescue were found in chalk on the walls. They evidently were compelled to change their vantage points on account of altering air conditions. The rescue squad pressed on in the direction indicated by the chalk marks.

PRINCESS ZIM-ZIM."

The famous theatrical producing firm of Liebler & Company are sending to Boston a brand new star in a brand new play, which is to open an engagement at the Plymouth Theatre on Tuesday evening, Dec. 19. The new play is entitled "The Princess Zim-Zim," and it was written specially for Miss Dorothy Donnelly at the instance of Liebler & Co. It deals with life at Coney Island, and its characters have been chosen by Edward Sheldon, the brilliant young author, from the people who furnish amusement at that noted resort—the snake charmer, the dancing girl, the shoot the chutes man, the two-headed negro, the Esquimau, the bearded lady, the diving Venus, the incubator man, and the good natured old bally-hoo, who owns the sideshow called "The Turkish Dream." With such unique and interesting material he has woven a drama of great strength. Mr. Sheldon graduated from Harvard University in the class of 1908, and within the subsequent time he has written "Salvation Nell," "The Nigger," and "The Boss," all of which have proven most successful plays. He has lived a summer at Coney Island studying types of character, scenes and atmosphere, all of which he has succeeded in reproducing in "The Princess Zim-Zim" with wonderful fidelity.

Miss Donnelly will be remembered in Boston for her superb work in "The Lion and the Mouse" and in "Madame X." She comes of an illustrious actor family. Her father was Lester Donnelly, for years manager of the Grand Opera House, New York, and her mother, Lotty Williams, a famous character actress of her day, her brother the late Henry V. Donnelly, the well known comedian, and her cousin, Fritz Williams.

Chief in Miss Donnelly's supporting cast is John Barrymore, also descendant from actor families on both his father's and his mother's sides. Although yet a young man, Barrymore has, within the past few years, made himself a prime favorite. Mr. Barrymore will be remembered in Boston particularly for his brilliant work in "The Fortune Hunter," during its recent long run here.

The other players prominent in the cast are Lee Baker, John O. Sharks, Susanne Sheldon, Olive May, Birmingham, Pinto, Thomas Vorden and twelve others. "The Princess Zim-Zim" is written in three acts and an

CHILDREN'S ROOM AT LIBRARY.

Yesterday afternoon the Public Library opened a Children's Room on the second floor of the Library building. The room has long been needed to relieve congested conditions on the main floor. It will be open on Saturdays from ten a. m. to 4 p. m., and on other week days from half-past three to seven p. m.

All the children's books have been placed in the new room, on shelves easily within reach of the little folks, and chairs and tables suited in size to different ages are ready for children who like to remain to read or look at pictures. Many attractive new books have been added, and it is hoped that the room will prove a pleasant resort for our children during the winter afternoons, and will help many of them to an acquaintance with the delightful persons and happenings in the Land of Books.

The attendance on the first afternoon was very good; ninety-four books were issued for home use, and the children expressed great satisfaction with the pleasant provision made for them.

Gifts of picture scrap-books for use at the tables would be much appreciated; also contributions of St. Nicholas magazines, either bound or unbound. The one copy of St. Nicholas to which the library can afford to subscribe is read to tatters in a short time.

LOCAL BOYS
MAKE IMPORTANT
INVENTION

The following article from the Tampa Bay, Florida, Times, is of interest here as the inventors are Sheas.

What is alleged to be the only device in existence that will convey intelligence to the outside world from a submarine after it has been submerged has just been patented by a Tampa man, John F. Shea. This patent is designed to make use of wireless apparatus in connection with the recent invention of the Sheas, John and Dan, for raising submerged vessels, and will enable the crew of any submarine vessel equipped with the proper instruments and apparatus to communicate with vessels at sea after the submarine has gone to the bottom of the ocean. The patent for this invention has been granted, No. 1,000,800.

Impressed is the public with this invention that the Sheas have already been made a handsome offer by one concern for the manufacturer's rights in Germany, and inquiries and offers are pouring in on every mail.

What It Is.

The present invention relates to signaling apparatus for ships, more especially to vessels of the submarine type, and purposes a construction whereby such vessels may be equipped with means for signaling when afloat or submerged. An important feature of the system is that it is serviceable to assist in rescuing the vessel in the event that it becomes disabled while submerged.

The invention proposes the mounting of a mast on a buoyant support or raft which is carried by, and as a fixed part of the submarine boat, this mast being equipped with a yardarm designed to carry the transmitting and receiving wires of a wireless system; and also applicable to serve in the place of the mast used in connection with the visible code system for signaling when the ship is on the surface.

The connections between the raft and the vessel are such that when the boat is submerged the raft may from within the boat be readily released to float on the surface, thereby bringing the vessel into wireless communication with other points.

The advantages of such an apparatus emphasize themselves forcefully, as with this arrangement on a submarine the vessel may sink to any depth of water, and in spite of becoming disabled, communicate with vessels on the surface. With the apparatus for raising a vessel the submarine can readily be brought to the surface, and with the answering vessel reaching her location within a reasonable time, all hands on the disabled submarine may be readily succored.

The Sheas recently patented a device that emphasizes themselves force-fully, as with the latter have gone to the bottom of the sea. This arrangement consisted of a system of buoys that being released automatically when the vessel sank, floated to the surface to mark the spot where the vessel lay. The invention has attracted the attention of the marine world, and meets with the approval of experts. The following letter was recently received by Mr. Shea from Capt. J. Ed. O'Brien, president of the American Pilots' association, Washington, D. C.

"Mr. John F. Shea, Tampa, Fla.

"Dear Sir: In accord with your request as to my opinion of your invention for the raising of sunken vessels, it gives me pleasure to state that it appears to me to be one of the greatest inventions of the age, both as a protection to life and a saving to property. Considering the expense incurred in raising vessels by the old methods, your device is also a money-saver, and I predict that you and the other stockholders will meet with success. It will be used, in my judgment, by all the governments of the world and merchant marine, if they knew about it and could procure it.

Yours very truly,

"J. Ed. O'Brien, President Pilots' Association."

The control and manufacture of the two devices patented by the Sheas will be in the hands of the Submarine Salvage and Equipment company, a concern organized almost entirely of local capital, practically all the necessary money for the concern having been subscribed eagerly by residents of Tampa. The promoters of the concern will now immediately take the proper steps to develop the possibilities of the inventions which have been produced by Tampa intellect in the persons of the Sheas.

LIQUOR DEALERS HANDED ANOTHER

License Commissioners Say They Can Make No Christmas Gifts Of Liquor This Year

Saloon keepers have been requested by the state license board to play Santa Claus no longer and drop the custom of handing out Christmas presents in the way of liquor. The order from the board to the dealers reads as follows: It is requested that the holders of all classes of licenses refrain this year from making gifts of liquor during the holiday season from Dec. 16, 1911 to Jan. 8, 1912. The board suggests that this request be displayed in a conspicuous place on your business premises or other order in second and third class license.

To Licensees of the Second and Third Class:

Owing to complications that have arisen in the administration of the license law, licenses of the second and third classes will not be granted to be exercised in the same room or rooms after April 30, 1912.

A LIVELY TIME ANTICIPATED

At the Edisonian tonight, where the Union Rebekahs will enjoy their second evening in Motion Pictures and Dancing.

Much more has been received at the Edisonian than expected of late, and the patrons are unanimous in the opinion that the management surely is making an effort to have the Edisonian the coming place of amusement in Portsmouth.

With its frequent changes and daily improvements it is sure to be as such.
